JUNE • 1940

Dear Alumnus:

Commencement has come and gone and your Alma. Mater has spawned the largest class in her history—one hundred and forty-four young men and women to take rightful places in all walks of life. When you see the Class of 1940 capably meeting every test of good citizenship, you'll be more than ever proud of your University.

During the summer months, the alumni secretary hopes to conduct meetings in several cities. Organization work with key alumni in the various cities has already begun and a series of interesting meetings is anticipated. The cities under consideration for meetings are Springfield, O., Columbus, O., Lima, O., St. Louis, Mo., Chicago, Ill., Detroit, Mich., Cleveland, O., Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Penn., New York, N. Y. With the exception of the Dayton alumni the above cities represent by far the bulk of our Alumni registry.

Those members of the Association who made dues payments since the last issue include Arthur Scarpelli '34, Anna Marie Ryder '30, Torrence A. Makley '13, Katherine Struck '39, Eileen Fiel '39, William Struck '35, Michael Usas '35, Allen O'Leary '25, Wm. P. Keane '30 and Wm. A. Blake '26, Dayton, O.; James E. (Ned) Grimes '04, George Hochwalt '20, Chicago; R. L. Stewart '22, New York, N. Y.; T. K. Spalding '29, Charleston, W. Va.; John W. Craig '29, Cincinnati ($5.00); James Schwendeman '37, Springfield, Ohio.

With this issue of the Alumnus we cease publication for the summer. We hope we'll be with you again in the fall but cannot be too sure. Publication of the Alumnus is a heavy drain on the University's general operating fund. The condition cannot go on much longer. However, the first statement for dues which will go forward in July, is expected to be received by each Alumnus in the spirit with which it is being sent, namely, one of mutual help and regard. If the result of this general solicitation is such that continued production of the magazine can be made possible, we'll be with you when the footballs fly next October.

90th ANNIVERSARY SYMPOSIUM—

Mayor Charles J. Brennan salutes the University's 90th Anniversary at the Symposium in the Auditorium, Saturday, June 8. Station WING carried the one and one-half hour program. Left to right are E. N. Detrick, director of the State Department of Education; Paul Williams, managing director of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce and Bishop George J. Rehring, auxiliary Bishop of Cincinnati. In the photo at the right are Father Elbert and Rev. Walter C. Tredin, Provincial of the Society of Mary.

COMMENCEMENT SCENES—PERSONS—

Principals of the 90th Commencement—Rev. Francis J. Friedel, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; commencement speaker M. A. Spayd and Father Elbert. At the right Captain Lewis Rock, member of the Associate Board of Lay Trustees of the University and managing editor of the Dayton Journal-Herald presents a Reserve Officer commission to Cadet John Lemming as Lt. Col. David Renwick Kerr, head of the University military staff, looks on. Cadet Lemming '40, was an honor graduate.

Commencement—

M. A. Spayd, vice-president and general manager of the Standard Register Company, Dayton, principal speaker at the 90th Commencement exercises held Sunday, June 9, at the N. C. R. Auditorium, proved a particularly happy choice in view of the "roll up your sleeves and go to work" challenge he hurled at the Class of 1940. There could not have been a person in the audience who failed to get the full significance of Mr. Spayd's "hard facts" remarks. He indulged in no starry-eyed saws and platitudes but instead got down to cases and laid out guide posts to be followed in the pursuit of any given career. He gave pointers on "how to get a job." Forsaking the customary academic type of orator proved a highly satisfactory move.

One hundred and forty-four received degrees. This was the largest graduating class in history.

Reserve Officers' commissions were presented by Captain Lewis Rock, managing editor of the Dayton Journal-Herald and member of the Board of Lay Trustees of the University. Valedictorian was Karl Schreiber, Cleveland.

The Baccalaureate sermon was delivered Sunday morning, June 9, by Msgr. Edward A. Freking, editor of the Catholic Telegraph-Register.

Symposium—

Featuring a succession of ringing declarations of gratitude for the work of the institution during the past ninety years and an abiding faith in its future, the Symposium commemorating the ninetieth anniversary of the University of Dayton was simply yet beautifully staged Saturday, June 8 in the auditorium.

Rain, which fell in torrents, forced the program indoors but could not in the least dampen the ardor of the distinguished personages gathered to pay homage to Dayton's oldest and most widely-known cultural institution.

Praises Article—

To the Editor

An interesting article in a recent issue of your Alumnus paper has just come to my attention. This article is entitled "A Glance at Business," by Professor E. B. O'Leary of the Department of Economics and Business.

It seems to me that Professor O'Leary has his current business information well in hand. He wrote it in terms that a layman can understand and has expressed some very fundamental truths according to my ideas.

It is fortunate for Dayton and this community that we have learned men such as Professor O'Leary to interpret for us the business both present and future. It seems appropriate that I express to you this feeling of mine at this time.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the University of Dayton Alumni Association, held Saturday evening, June 8, in Chaminade Hall clubroom, was called to order by Judge Wm. H. Wolff, president. The keynote of the present standing of the Association, together with hopes for the immediate future, was sounded by Judge Wolff who read excerpts from "Retrospect and Prospect," the souvenir booklet produced in connection with the 90th Anniversary celebration.

"The ultimate aim of this Association is to help the University. The need of the University is for three new buildings—a faculty residence, a field-house and a science hall. Therefore, the immediate work of the Alumni Association is to bend every effort toward the attainment of the building project," said the chairman. "We all here full realize the enormity of the task that confronts us but at the same time we also realize the amount of time required to complete the project will be in direct ratio to the interest our alumni take in the work."

"We each have a job to do. First of all we owe moral and financial support to the Alumni Association so that it may continue the project. Secondly, we must each give constant thought to our University's needs and then give the benefit of that thought to the officers who will soon meet to formulate working plans."

Judge Wolff was roundly applauded and at this point the secretary took the floor to report the status of the Association after slightly less than one year of re-organization. Included in the report was a mention of the publishing of the Alumnus magazine; the establishment of active alumni chapters in Cincinnati, Chicago, Washington D. C., Philadelphia, New York, Honolulu T. H., San Francisco; alumni meetings and get-togethers in Toledo; proposed chapter work in St. Louis, Cleveland, Columbus, Detroit and Springfield, Ohio; establishment of the Miami Valley Alumni and Alumnae chapters; Homecoming program; football testimonial banquet; beginnings in employment service and adult education; a general reviving of alumni interest.

Re-union classes present included 1920, 1925, 1930, 1935 and 1937. Out-of-town delegates were introduced separately.

This meeting marked the first time in history that co-ed graduates (co-education inaugurated 1935) were present at their alumni association's annual meeting. The president of the Miami Valley Alumnae chapter, Miss Eileen Fiel '39, Dayton, was introduced from the floor.

The secretary pointed out, in elaboration of the Chairman's previous comments, that thus far in the re-organization period, the full financial brunt has been carried by the University. This cost includes maintenance of a full time secretary, publishing of the magazine and costs incidental to the pursuit of the various functions now in effect and those envisaged for the immediate future.

It was indicated that "this financial burden is being willingly carried by the University at this time—as a matter of fact was voluntarily accepted in the first place with that thought in mind. However," and here strong consideration was asked from every member, "this condition can not long endure. The cart is before the horse. Alumni Associations exist for mutual benefit among the members—true, but their principal reason for existence is the organized aid they can extend their Alma Maters. Surely their first consideration then must be the acceptance of the financial responsibility pursuant to the bare cost of organization.

"The University, through its shouldering of the burden for the greater portion of a year, has extended its hand in friendly good will. It has shown the confidence it feels that once this organization is under way and assured of success, the individual members will step into the breach and through payment of dues and special gifts, take over the financial responsibility." In closing, the secretary announced that the first statements for dues would go forward within one month.

The meeting closed with an informal get-together in the clubroom. Games and refreshments provided the diversion.

Our Yesterdays

35 Years Ago—June, 1905

25 Years Ago—June, 1915

Campus editorialists "viewed with alarm" the noisy, dangerous "fad" of roller skating which was sweeping the country.

Letters from the Alumni

My dear Jim:

The Alumni meeting at the Mayflower Hotel on May 21st was a good one. Mr. Joseph T. Molz, brother of Dr. Francis J. Molz spoke on the Chaminade Club. Unfortunately, I do not have the lists of names of those attending, inasmuch as Mr. Molz took them back to Baltimore with him. However, it will probably suffice to tell you that we are planning another meeting for Monday, June 17th, 1940, at the Mayflower Hotel. I will advise you of developments promptly thereafter.

Mayor Charles J. Brennan represented the City of Dayton; Lt. Governor Paul M. Herbert, the State of Ohio; Bishop George J. Rehring, the clergy and the Archdiocese; Rev. Walter C. Tredtin, the Society of Mary and Father Elbert, the University. Mr. Paul Williams, managing director of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce acted as master of ceremonies. Others introduced were Mr. E. N. Detrick, director of the State Department of Education; Judge Wm. H. Wolff, president of the Alumni Association and Rev. B. P. O'Reilly S.M., past president of the University.

This was one of the most impressive and inspiring ceremonies ever witnessed on the campus. Spectators and those of the WING radio audience were lavish in their comments. The simple dignity of the affair and the outstanding eloquence of the particularly happy selection of speakers were praised. It was a never-to-be-forgotten occasion—one mementored in print by the souvenir booklet "Retrospect and Prospect" by Joseph J. Panzer S.M., which will soon go to the Alumni membership. This book will be a prized possession of every loyal son and daughter of Dayton.

Again I wish to congratulate you and your staff on the latest issue of the Alumnus magazine.

Upon a recent business trip to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago and Dayton, I had occasion to discuss some of the subject matter with business acquaintances and without exception the make-up and subject matter were praised sincerely.

Many of these people are Alumni of major universities and, of course, are familiar with comparable literature from their own Alma Maters. Under the circumstances I felt that you would be glad to get their reactions to your latest endeavor.

The paper definitely has merit and I sincerely hope that the University will find it expedient to continue this fine work as a permanent institution.

As a material display of my personal interest and appreciation I am enclosing my check in the amount of $5.00 as a contribution to the Alumni Association fund.
